Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fleischmann (US 889,593). Fleischmann disclose a locking fastener assembly comprising a nut (9), a washer (1). The nut and washer having annular bearing surfaces (10, 3) with inclined bearing faces (12, 7) being rotatable relative to one another. The washer having an opposite clamping surface with a body portion (opposite bearing surface 3) and flange. The flange including plural segments (5) separated by radial slots (4).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 18-21 and 24 26 are allowable.

Claim 23 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: as discussed in the parent application the prior art does not disclose or make obvious the undulating and curved or spherical bearing surfaces in the claimed environment. The prior art also does not disclose or make obvious the V-grooves extending from radial slots in the claimed environment.

Response to Remarks

Applicant's only argument still applicable is regards the rejection of claim 22 under section 102 as being anticipated by Fleischmann. Applicant contends that claim 22 should be allowable since it is identical to claim 5 which was allowed in a related application. In response, the examiner disagrees because there is no requirement that necessitates a claim being allowed simply because it was allowed in another application. In the present case, the Fleischmann reference is a new reference which is not of record in the related application.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
